COSOL and Oniqua forge partnership in Latin America

September 5 2008: Resource company service specialists, COSOL and Oniqua are pleased to announce a strategic partnership for Latin America.

Both organisations provide market leading solutions to the resource sector. COSOL as a provider of technology based services and solutions for the global mining and mineral processing industry; that have an established presence in Latin America. While Oniqua offers enterprise analytic solutions for asset-intensive industries, delivering Oniqua Analytics Suite (OAS) as a pre-configured, ready-to-go analytic solution for asset- intensive industries, including mining, oil & gas and utilities. Oniqua's analytic solutions employ an advanced risk-based optimization model that systematically optimizes maintenance and spare parts as business conditions change.

Together in partnership, COSOL and Oniqua offer a compelling strategic alliance in servicing the core Latin American resource sector.

With joint clients throughout the globe, COSOL will operate as the Oniqua product "Certified Services Partner" for the Latin American region. Oniqua will continue to provide direct support to their clients from their offices in Australia and the USA, while COSOL will assist in the delivery, support and market development of Oniqua products into the Latin American region.

Mark Cooper, COSOL Director in charge of Latin American operations, says: "This partnership enables improved business outcomes to our joint customers. Oniqua's analytic solutions strength and COSOL's intimate systems and operational expertise in the resources industry, provides this alliance with logical synergies in the improvement and application of best practice to the business processes around materials management and maintenance".

"Oniqua is thrilled to have COSOL as a key strategic partner in the region, delivering and promoting our solutions globally" says Chris Wright, Director of Solutions, Oniqua. "The business outcome for our customers will be strengthened by this alliance".
